Brazil

Samba is a type of dance.

Carnaval is a spring festival celebrated all over Brazil. The most famous celebrations are in Rio de Janeiro, where different samba schools parade through the Sambódromo stadium while drumming, dancing, singing and wearing incredible costumes.

Feathered headdresses are up to 1.5 metres (5 feet) tall.

The Sambódromo can seat 90,000 people!

Some dancers, called baianas, twirl in hooped skirts.

Thousands of sequins and jewels make the costumes dazzle.

Give this model a fabulous Carnaval headdress.

Add a sequin design to this cuff bracelet!

Try these colours.

New York City, USA

Street fashion in New York City is inspired by hip-hop. This famous music and dance style started in the Bronx area of New York in the 1960s and 1970s. Today, many hip-hop stars have created their own clothing ranges.

Clothes often include logos (small symbols) to tell you who designed them.

Design a logo for your own range of hip-hop inspired clothes.

Street art is an important part of hip-hop culture.

Loose clothes are easy to breakdance in.

Customise this trainer using whatever colours and designs you like.

Argentina

Argentinian cowboys, or gauchos, roam the country's vast grasslands. Their clothes are tough and practical, designed for horseriding, herding cattle and sheep, and surviving in remote locations.

Traditional beret or broad-brimmed sombrero hat

Poncho

Styling note:

For fiestas (festivals) gauchos wear full traditional costume. Everyday wear is usually a mix of traditional and modern elements.

A gaucho's knife is called a facone.

Wide leather and metal belt

Loose trousers, called bombachas

Tough leather boots with spurs

Gaucho lasso

Ponchos often feature geometric designs.

Colour in this geometric fabric pattern.

For fiestas the horses dress up, too!

Give this horse a decorative bridle for a fiesta.

Spain

The famous flamenco dancers of southern Spain wear distinctive dresses with ruffled skirts. The dancers' complex, graceful hand movements are used to express their feelings.

Many dresses are decorated with polka dots.

Dancers sometimes use accessories such as fringed shawls, fans and castanets.

The full skirt swishes as the dancer moves.

Doodle a lacy pattern on this flamenco fan.

A fitted bodice shows off the dancer's proud posture.

Design a flamenco-inspired dress to dance in.

The dancer stamps her high-heeled shoes to create a rhythm.

Don't forget!!!!

Japan

In Japan, kimonos are usually worn on formal occasions, such as during the tea ceremony. Both men and women wear kimonos, although the styling is slightly different.

The tea ceremony is about living in the moment.

Wrap the left side of the kimono over the right.

The kimono is held in place with a wide sash called an obi.

The sash can be tied in different ways.

Design a floral pattern for a kimono.

Don't forget elaborate hair accessories!

Decorate this girl's hair with Japanese-inspired accessories.
